Another, Albert Bohman, Convicted-The Metal Plate Broken Up and Further Disfigured by Putting the Pieces on a

Fire-Was Sold to a Junkman for $14.30

The story of how the bronze tablet on the Slocum monument, which marks the burial place of sixty-one unidentified dead of the General Slocum disaster in Lutheran Cemetery, Middle Village, in the Borough of Queens, was torn from the monument, broken into pieces and burned in a fire until its character became unrecognizable and was then sold to a junkman for $14.30 was told to Judge Burt J. Humphrey and a jury in the Queens County Court, Long Island City, yesterday by John J. Quinn, Jr.

Albert Bohman, 19 years old, of 700 Palmetto street, Brooklyn, was on trial on an indictment charging him with grand larceny in the second degree and the malicious descruction of property. Similar indictments stand against Quinn, Frank Darsch and George Deitrich, who are all charged with having participated in the theft. They all demanded separate trials, and Bohman's case was the first selected.

Assistant District Attorney James A. Dayton sprang a surprise when he called Quinn to the witness stand. In his testimony Quinn said he had a hand in the theft and destruction of the Slocum monument tablet and he wanted to clear his conscience. On the invitation of Darsch, Deitrich and Bohman he said he accompanied them to Lutheran Cemetery on the night of November 9 of last year. They got into the cemetery grounds through a small gate leading in from the railroad tracks. First they broke into a tool house and obtained a pickaxe. The witness was placed on guard while the other three went to the monument and with the aid of the pickaxe dug the and with the aid of the pickaxe dug the tablet off. It weighed more than 100 pounds, so Deitrich took it on his back and they helped him carry it out of the small gate by which they had entered to the railroad tracks. Later they obtained a wagon and hauled the tablet to a vacant stretch of ground in the vicinity of Ridgewood, where they buried it for the night. The next morning they dug it up, broke it into small chunks and, building a fire, threw the pieces into the blaze and left them there until they were further disfigured by the the pieces into the blaze and left them there until they were further disfigured by the heat. Next they loaded their loot into a bag and took it to a jonkman in Myrtle avenue, where it was sold for $14.30.

Harry Smith and Gustav Dipple saw the boys burning the plate in the lots and later followed them some distance on the way to the junk shop. Pasquale Stamtofor, who keeps a junk yard at 1476 Myrtle avenue, Brooklyn, testified to buying the stuff. He identified Bohman as one of the two young men who came into his place with it.

In his own defence Bohman swore that he was at home the night of the theft, but the next day he and the three others under indictment found the broken and blackened tablet in a fire in a vacant lot in Ridgewood and that they gathered up the pieces and and that they gathered up the pieces and sold them. It took the jury about 15 minutes to find Bohman guilty.

The stolen tablet was worth about $400. On the face of the tablet the burning of the steamboat was depicted. Another tablet has since been set in the monument. In view of Quinn's confession and Bohman's conviction it is expected that the other two under indictment will plead guilty.

PRESTON CASE IS CLOSED.

Coroner Satisfied He Committed Suicide -Dr. Mallett Says He Was Misrepresented. Dr. George H. Mallett of 144 West Seventyfirst street, who attended Leonidas M. Preston, treasurer of the Timken Roller Bearing Axle Company, prior to the time when he suddenly died last Thursday night in the Hotel Cumberland, went before Coroner Harburger yesterday and told what he knew concerning the latter months of his sudden death Dr. Mallett told the Coroner that he had been misrepresented in some of the newspapers, which said that when he was summoned to the Hotel Cumberland on Thursday night he tried to keep secret the fact that Preston had probably died of poisoning. He had given out cerebral hemorrhage as the cause of death after making a hasty examination of the dead man, and in this opinion, so Dr. Mailett told the Coroner, he TOMBS COURT HOUSECLEANING. Hereafter Lawyers and Their Runners Will Be Kept Outside the Rail.

Magistrate Whitman did a little housecleaning in the Tombs police court yesterday morning before starting the regular business of the day. Of late lawyers and their runners have been allowed to mingle freely with prisoners inside the railing and the inner railed space at will.

Magistrate Whitman had all persons excluded from the railed space excepting those having business there. The lawyers were made to sit on a beach in the court room and wait until their cases were called. A beach was brought inside the railing for witnesses, so that the lawvers cannot get at them. "Fixed" cases will be few while Magistrate Whitman sits in the court.

This housecleaning, however, is to last a little longer than some other similar reforms. Magistrate Whitman is presi-dent of the board of Magistrates. He said he would do all he could to tring about similar condition in all the courts. He wi bring the matter to the attention of the board and try to have some rules passed by that body so that there may be uniform methods of doing business in all the courts.

Cornell's Athlete Arrested.

ITHACA, March 11.-Charles E. Moon, a member of last fail's Cornell freshman football team, was arrested to-day on the charge of assaulting V. I. Safro, a Cornell sophomore. Moon's brother runs a boarding house. Moon started out to collect some back room rent. Safro offered to settle and said he was going to leave. The terms did not satisfy Moon and he used football tactics to collect the bill. He was released on bail and the case will be tried beat week.

WAY TO GET AT PICKPOCKETS. Five of Them Sent to Penitentiary for Six Months for Jostling Passengers. By sending to prison six alleged pickpockets who were arrested "on suspicion" the Court of Special Sessions established a precedent yesterday and opened the way toward a solution of the cutpurse question, which has been troubling the minor criminal courts for a long time.

When pickpockets were arrested "on suspicion" it had been the custom of the Magistrates to release them at once. Some one discovered that under Section 675 of the Penal Code these prisoners could be sent away. This section says in effect that any persons who shall annoy passengers in a public place or conveyance, either by acts or language, even though such acts shall not amount to assault or battery, are guilty of misdemeanors.

When the Magistrates announced that they would make use of this law Detectives O'Farrell and Firneisen of the Central Office agrational Office arraigned the six prisoners sentenced yesterday and charged them with jostling passengers on street cars. The tenced yesterday and charged them with jostling passengers on street cars. The six were held and later tried and convicted, being sentenced yesterday.

They are Samuel Hyman, 19 years old, of 97 Suffolk street; Joseph Gassler, 19 years old, who has no home; Hyman Friedberg, 20 years old, of 158 Allen street; Charles Gordon, 20 years old, of 185 Second street; Charles Goldberg, 18 years old, who also has no home, and Harry Cohen, 17 years old, of 244 East Fighty-first street.

The first five were sentenced to six months in the penitentiary, while Cohen was sent to the House of Refuge, from which he was paroled some time ago. He violated his parole.

This stand by the Special Sessions Jus-

This stand by the Special Sessions Justices is said to have made a stir among the crooks. Some are said to have left town and others are taking great pains to cultivate the friendship of Fast Side merchants who may be relied upon to swear that the pickpockets are employed by them, and hence are not vagrants.

Probation Officer Graveur, who investigated the cases of the boys sentenced yesterday, said that he learned of three pickpockets who were paying an employment agency $15 a week, which the agency returned to them. The receipts for these sums were to be used as proof that the holders were not vagrants if arrested.

REMARKS ON THE POOLROOMS.

So Many of Them Running, Says Breen, That Law Against Them is a Farce. Magistrate Breen, in holding for trial the three men arrested in Deputy Police Commissioner Hanson's raid on a Broadway poolroom without the knowledge of Capt. Halpin and Inspector Walsh a week ago Saturday, declared in the West Side court yesterday that dishonesty among employees is increasing and that it is due largely to the number of poolrooms that run in the city with immunity from the police, obtained, in the belief of the community, for a price. "It is astounding," he said, "that although the offence is made a felony by statute, poolrooms flourish like the green bay tree in every section of the city. Thousands of men, young and old, can tell you of the of men, young and old, can tell you of the exact location of poolrooms. Their existence is a public secret. It is idle to say that the police are blind to them.

"Nothing so dulls the edge of public conscience as a flagrant disregard of the law. The result can be seen every day in police courts in the increasing dishonesty of trusted employees of moderate salaries.
"It would be better to have this law repealed than to make it a mockery. For in that case, while the evil could not be much more extensive than it is at present, the more extensive than it is at present, the community would be saved the humiliation of knowing that the law was derided and of knowing that the law was derided and of believing that its violators were obtaining immunity for a price."

The evidence against the alleged poolroom was obtained by two men from the office of the Superintendent of Elections, who were inspecting registry returns. The raid was cited by Commissioner Bingham at the hearing on his police bill at Albany
last week when the three inspectors aplast week when the three inspectors appeared to talk against it, as an instance of what he said Inspector Walsh should have known about his district.

Magistrate Breen fixed bail at $1,000 each for the three defendants, George Brown, John Davis and Frederick Fleischauer.

VANCE ROBBED HIS BRIDE. Convicted Yesterday and Soon to Be Put on Trial for Bigamy.

Edward A. Vance was convicted of grand larceny in the second degree by a jury in the County Court, Brooklyn, yesterday afternoon. The complaining witness was Miss Elsie W. Schlegel, the daughter of a wealthy resident of Bay Ridge, who charged him with getting from her the jewelry left to her by her mother and then pawning it. On February 6 Vance, representing himself to be a man named Field, was married to Miss Schlegel. The fact that he was already married and thus had committed bigamy was made known to Miss Schlegel on the wedding tour after Vance's money had run out. Before the case was concluded yesterday District Attorney Clarke managed to get Vance to acknowledge on the witness stand that the night before he was married to Miss Schlegel he spent with his first wife at 439 First street, Brook-

"His whole life," said the District Attorney, "has been a living lie. You couldn't put a pin on any point of him that was not a lie. He even lied to the minister on the night of the second marriage. He fooled the whole family in everything. If he had committed such a crime in the West had committed such a crime in the West justice would have been served to him with a short shrift. The Bible had no more significance to him than a bunch of pawn-tickets."

The jury was out twenty minutes. After his conviction Vance said he was 35 years old, was born in Pittsburg, had a mother living, was a bookkeeper, was married, a Roman Catholie and had never been convicted before. Judge Dike said he would sentence Vance on Monday. On Thursday District Attorney Clarke will move the trial of Vance for bigamy. The maximum penalty for grand larceny in the second degree is five years.
